(1) Effective duration is the approximate percentage change in price for a 100 basis point change in rates. An effective duration of 3.280 indicates that an interest rate increase of 1.0% would be expected to cause a 3.280% decrease in the value of the MBS in the Company's investment portfolio at March 31, 2019. An effective duration of 3.935 indicates that an interest rate increase of 1.0% would be expected to cause a 3.935% decrease in the value of the MBS in the Company's investment portfolio at December 31, 2018. These figures include the structured securities in the portfolio but not the effect of the Company's hedges. Effective duration quotes for individual investments are obtained from The Yield Book, Inc.

Financing and Liquidity

As of March 31, 2019, the Company had outstanding repurchase obligations of approximately $199.1 million with a net weighted average borrowing rate of 2.71%. These agreements were collateralized by MBS with a fair value, including accrued interest, of approximately $212.3 million. At March 31, 2019, the Company's liquidity was approximately $5.1 million, consisting of unpledged MBS and cash and cash equivalents.

We may pledge more of our structured MBS as part of a repurchase agreement funding, but retain cash in lieu of acquiring additional assets. In this way, we can, at a modest cost, retain higher levels of cash on hand and decrease the likelihood we will have to sell assets in a distressed market in order to raise cash. Below is a list of outstanding borrowings under repurchase obligations at March 31, 2019.

Hedging

In connection with its interest rate risk management strategy, the Company economically hedges a portion of the cost of its repurchase agreement funding and also its junior subordinated notes by entering into derivative financial instrument contracts. The Company has not elected hedging treatment under U.S. generally accepted accounting principles (“GAAP”) in order to align the accounting treatment of its derivative instruments with the treatment of its portfolio assets under the fair value option election. As such, all gains or losses on these instruments are reflected in earnings for all periods presented. As of March 31, 2019, such instruments were comprised of Eurodollar futures contracts and to-be-announced (“TBA”) securities transactions.

The tables below present information related to outstanding Eurodollar futures contracts at March 31, 2019.

Stock Repurchase Plan

Pursuant to Repurchase Plan, the Company may purchase up to 500,000 shares of its Class A Common Stock from time to time, subject to certain limitations imposed by Rule 10b-18 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended. Share repurchases may be executed through various means, including, without limitation, open market transactions. The Repurchase Plan does not obligate the Company to purchase any shares. The Repurchase Plan was originally set to expire on November 15, 2018, but it was extended by the Board of Directors until November 15, 2019. The authorization for the Share Repurchase Plan may be terminated, increased or decreased by the Company's Board of Directors in its discretion at any time.

Since inception of the program through March 31, 2019, the Company repurchased a total of 70,404 shares at an aggregate cost of approximately $166,241, including commissions and fees, for a weighted average price of $2.37 per share.

Management Commentary

Commenting on the first quarter, Robert E. Cauley, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, said, "The outlook for the economy in the U.S. changed over the course of the first quarter of 2019. As 2018 drew to a close, the markets were in a state of turmoil and the outlook for economic growth, both in the domestic U.S. economy and the global economy, was very bleak. Over the course of the quarter incoming domestic economic data generally improved, implying the weakness seen in late 2018 and very early 2019 was temporary. The economic data in the EU and China also stabilized, although it has not recovered to the extent it has in the U.S., especially with respect to the EU. Some of the external issues, Brexit and the trade dispute between China and the U.S., among others, have not had the impact on global growth feared at the end of 2018. In the case of Brexit, the decision has been postponed in order to give the U.K. time to reach an internal decision on the terms of their exit from the EU. Prior to this week, the trade talks between the U.S. and China appeared to be nearing a successful conclusion. In any event, while the domestic and global economies may not be growing as well as they did in 2018, the situation is not as dire as it appeared a few short months ago. As for the Federal Reserve, or "Fed", they are clearly in a wait and see, or data dependent, mode. In this respect, all of the world's major central banks are aligned in their policy stance – in each case either accommodating economic growth or neutral – as in the case of the U.S. This accommodative alignment of the world's central banks is what has allowed the outlook to improve over the course of the quarter, as markets across the globe view their respective central banks, and all central banks, as having the markets back so to speak. The consensus view seems to be the central banks will intervene as necessary whenever economic growth weakens or markets fall into turmoil.

“These developments were beneficial for Bimini. Bimini generated after-tax net income of approximately $1.6 million, or $0.13 per share of class A common stock. Of course, owing to our available tax net operating losses, Bimini does not have to actually pay federal or state income taxes, so this income is retained, and a portion of our deferred tax asset can be utilized. With respect to the portfolio operations at Royal Palm Capital, the portfolio was essentially unchanged in size and interest income was down 2%. Interest expense on our repurchase agreement borrowings increased by 6%, resulting in a 12% decrease in the net interest income generated by the portfolio. However, with interest rates lower over the course of the quarter and agency mortgage backed securities performing well, mark to market gains on Royal Palm’s agency RMBS holdings exceeded mark to market losses on our hedge instruments by approximately $1.0 million. Combined with net interest income of the portfolio of approximately $0.9 million, Royal Palm generated a 10.4% return on invested capital. We anticipate the agency RMBS portfolio will grow over the course of the second quarter of 2019.

“Advisory services revenues were down 13% during the first quarter of 2019 compared to the fourth quarter of 2018, as the equity base of Orchid Island Capital declined slightly over the quarter. Dividends from our holdings of shares in Orchid Island Capital, both at Bimini and Royal Palm Capital, were unchanged on the quarter at $0.4 million.

“As mentioned, while the agency RMBS portfolio was essentially unchanged in size during the quarter, with a market value of approximately $211.7 million, (versus $212.4 million at December 31, 2018), we anticipate the portfolio will grow over the course of the second quarter as we are able to deploy retained earnings. The composition of the portfolio was not changed during the quarter.

“As we move into the second quarter of 2019 the economic outlook has stabilized significantly versus the outlook at the end of 2018. The central banks appear aligned in their monetary policy – generally accommodative, and risks to the outlook, while still present, are mitigated by anticipated interventions by central banks to stabilize conditions as needed. While the Fed may not lower interest rates in 2019, the bar for additional rate increases appears quite high. Under such conditions, with rates generally stable, the agency RMBS portfolio at Royal Palm should continue to generate attractive returns, and as mentioned, should grow over the course of the year. Advisory service revenue will be driven by developments at Orchid Island Capital, as always. We are cautiously optimistic the challenging environment caused by a prolonged rate hiking cycle by the Fed may be over, and conditions will be supportive for levered bond funds such as Royal Palm and Orchid Island Capital going forward.”
